SAMANTHA GOOD

Museum volunteer and Relief Curator is a finalist in the category

OUTSTANDING VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTION TO HERITAGE BY AN INDIVIDUAL.

Sam's unique contribution is through her unique blend of skills. She has given this small community museum exceptionally high quality curatorial work and free design services - two complementary skills that are not usually found in the same person. Plus, her communication and people-skills that have enabled her to lead and teach other volunteers have also contributed so much to raising local awareness and broadening the user groups to the museum. She is the single volunteer whose contribution has had the most impact upon this Museum, probably far more than she, or other people will ever realise.
