Hi, my name is Melissa Welsh and I came to York 20 years ago for work and instantly felt at home in the community.

In that time, I have been involved with many aspects of York life and the community from sport to the arts and I alongside my husband David, have also chosen York to raise our family.

I have a background in agricultural research and development, marketing and extension. Agriculture was my first career but over the past 7 years I have followed my creative side, running my own thriving interior design studio. These careers have given me skills in project management, problem solving, collaboration, financial management, communication and marketing.

York is a great community however we need to build on this, looking for opportunities to improve it's sustainability for the future. I would like the opportunity to help shape how our town looks, operates and feels for the longer term, so that York is not just a place to live but a place to work, raise families and thrive.
